

Webservant Report NASCONA June 2, 2013

The web site is doing great. In my last 3 reports I stated that my crystal ball was broken and I couldn't read minds anymore and you know what? It is still broken. I am going to stress this.... If you want events on the website I need the flier and the information about the event (area or group) so I can post it. A lot of the fliers that I get for our area come off of face book. I have had some complaints about events not being posted on our website. I can't post them unless they are sent to me or at least someone calls me and gives me the information. Next event is the pool party. Where is the flier and info for me to put it on the website?

Now I understand that some of you are having problems finding things on the website. I would like to call to your attention the search engine on each of our web pages. I am in the process of reformatting the site so that things will be easier to find. I have added an index page and made it real simple. I haven't finished, but when I do finish the groups will have the option to select the template they like best as I will put different templates up for about a week to be viewed by the members of the groups. It only takes about 30 seconds to change templates in WordPress.

I am always open to changes on the website that the groups want. I am not going to be at the ASC not. My shoulder is still hurting me and the road vibration doesn't help any. If I am not you are welcome to call me if you have any questions. 210-445-0837.

As per the newsletter, I haven't done much with my one arm. I have some articles coming and I will get one generated as soon as possible.

In Selfless Service,

Bob T.
